

No amount of money any industry can afford to pay should place their desire to market over my promise of right to privacy. Surely every American deserves to peace within their home away from telemarketing even including banking and the Fraternal Order of Police.